Methodist services in the Opera House.

The other of the Tabernacle congregation.

A goodly number of the congregation of Bridge Street Church, attended services at the Opera House yesterday. The day was bitter cold, yet at the morning service the orchestra, quartet and balcony choir were well supported. In the evening the congregation was large.

It was awkward enough for the congregation to turn from their accustomed place
of worship, still a month and a half away over the street to a building dedicated to amusement, to engage in divine worship.

Yet the audience was just as grand, the thoughts as earnest and the devotion as from the boards they had just quitted the freedom of the theatre some 12 hours before. After the theatre closed on Saturday night Manager Tammie and his associates set to work thoroughly scrubbing the floor and woodwork to make the place more cleanly for the steadfast going people who occupied it today. A clock was placed before the organ for Mr. Clarkson and the choir occupied the space reserved for the orchestra. Mr. Clarkson stated that he was too overcome by the events of the past week to be able to give a sermon. But he had his people to trust in the God who was wise to lead and to kind to unjail, in such a touching way that many were moved to tears. He said the old church had bounced the gospel truths for so many years, and filled so great a space in the community, and wielded such an influence,
that to rebuild was an absolute necessity.
The old building had seemed good enough,
but a new one with all the modern improvements must take its place. He believed the people endorsed these sentiments. The congregation would be asked to bear the cost of the new building by subscribing liberally. It would be the aim of the committee to be able to pay for the building when completed. He asked the discountented ones, if there were any, to be patient. Everything might not be just as they wished it, but the matter should be yielded to the majority. They all agreed at one end, the creation of a new church.
It would be accomplished much easier by all working in union. The Sunday school room, he said, was about perfect. The auditorium was good, but it could be better as fashions change. As soon as the trustees see by the subscription list that the people will stand by them, tenders for the erection of a new church will be asked for. The pastor referred in grateful terms to the eternity of sympathy received from the Sons of England, the Rev. E. W. Sibbald, of Christ Church, Rev. J. W. Burke, of St.
Thomas Church, and Rev. S. P. Rose, of Hudson, former pastors of the consummated church. Upon the conclusion of morning services the trustees board were called together for a few minutes' consultation. It appeared that on Saturday evening a resolution of sympathy had been passed by the united officials of the Tabernacle and at the same time they offered to use their church
for the time required in the re-erection of the home of their sister congregation. This communication was produced and read by Jno. Lewis, Secy. of the Board.

The generous proposition of the officials of the Tabernacle and the kind interest
made to the late destruction of Bridge St.
Church in the resolution, displayed most sincere sympathy with the pastor and people deprived of their beautiful place of worship. The trustees board came to the conclusion that after the communication the resolution was read to the congregation at the evening service, the united officials should be asked to meet on Monday evening, in order that in taking action the unanimous support of the people might be secured.

After the evening service, the following communication from the officials of the Tabernacle was read:

BELEVEILLE, January 8, 1886.

HONORABLE MEMBERS OF THE BOARD OF TRUSTEES OF THE METHODIST CHURCH,
DANIEL ST.

Dear Sirs:—At a meeting of the Trustees and Board of the Methodist Church of the City of Danville, held on the 7th inst., the following resolution was passed, and unanimously adopted: That the Board of Trustees and Board of the Methodist Church of the City of Danville, in the last resort
of the Trustees, should be asked to meet on Monday evening, in order that in taking might be secured.

Yours truly,

Read:—That we view the destruction by fire
of Bridge Street Methodist Church, as a most severe calamity to our city. The ready generosity with which its doors were always open to the poor, the sick, the aged, the Protestant denominations were interested, as well as the friends of the cause of the destitute, and the fact that the church was not taken over, is a most gratifying circumstance.

Yours truly,
J. H. DUNN, Secy. Board.

EDITORIAL BRIEFS.

What does the Globe's article of Nov. 28th say, in which it took the ground that the Dominion Government is to be held responsible for the rebellion in Montana? It has but one meaning, and that is that the half-breeds were justified in shooting down the troops who went to restore order. Will the people of Canada endorse such a proposition by casting their votes in support of it?

David Mills, M.P., editor of the London Advertiser, has received from the Ontario Government about $8,000, for the purpose of connection with the boundary dispute. According to the Globe's mode of reasoning, Mr. Mills and the Advertiser "don't count."

Danny O'Donoghue, "labor organizer," is a lucky "workman." He got $1,127 from the Ontario Government last year—$215 for services as a laborer, and $912 for $100 for services in the transfer of prisoners. Danny's real occupation is influencing the labor organizations on behalf of his masters.

The London Free Press remarks: "The Globe's account of the Huron Indians as 'penitents of the Dominion Government.' This is wrong. None of the Indians are 'penitents.' It is a deliberate insult to call them so. What they received from the Government is there by right of treaty, a yearly interest paid in consideration of territorial concessions. It is customary for the Brits to allow the Indian population of every country."

We believe that the present Government is only utilizing the Tim Valley Canal in order to dupe the people, and that until we have a change of Government no permanent substantial work will ever be undertaken, looking towards the completion of this national project.—Peterborough Examiner.

Considering that the Mackenzie Government made a present of the canal works to the Ontario Government, who proposed to destroy them; that Mr. Mackenzie condemned the scheme of building the canal as "a midsummer madness," and that the present administration not only restored the canal to Dominion control, but saved the existing works and have very largely extended the canal, the Economist's faith in its party is sublime. The people of the municipalities interested will not share it, however.

Queen's Bench Judgments.

The Queen's Bench division (Chief Justice Wilson and Judge Armour) delivered a number of judgments yesterday the only one of interest being that of Richardson v. Ransom, in which an important constitutional question arose.

The case was tried before Mr. Justice O'Connor at Belleville, and was brought to recover damages for an alleged false imprisonment, the plaintiff being arrested in the county of Hastings upon a warrant from the Belleville Police Magistrate, who, by the Ontario statute, in ex officio, a justice of the peace for the county. The plaintiff raised the question as to whether the Ontario Government had the right to appoint justices of the peace, claiming that the Dominion authorities' faith in the power. The point was elaborately argued, and the court gave judgment to the plaintiff's contention with costs.

Local Legals.

The following local cases were before the Queen's Bench Division in Toronto on Monday:

WATKINS v. GREEN.—Judgment. Defendant's appeal absolute to set aside plaintiff's judgment and award costs. G. H. Sherry (Belleville) for the motion. Henderson, Q.C. (Belleville) contra.

MILLES v. REED.—Judgment. Order to set aside the defendant's judgment in an action of negligence discharged with costs, and action dismissed with costs. G.D. Dickson, Q.C., for the motion. Burdett (Belleville) contra.

WILKINSON v. CURTIS.—Judgment. Order absolute to enter judgment for the plaintiff with costs. O'Connor, J., dissenting.

RICHARDSON v. RANSOM.—Judgment. Order made setting aside the judgment for the plaintiff, and dismissing the action with costs. Burdett for the defendant. Dickson, Q.C., for the plaintiff. E. F. Johnson for the Attorney General.

GOLDWIN SMITH on Prohibition.

Goldwin Smith's pamphlet on "Temperance versus Prohibition," a copy of which we have received, sets forth many of the Liberal Temperance objections to Prohibition, presents a review of the working of the temperance movement in Canada and the United States, and advances views as to the true methods of dealing with the liquor problem. It is written in Prof. Smith's usual terse and witty style, and well merits the personal of both Scott and anti-Scott. Richardson, dealer with Alcohol from a scientific point of view.

DAILY INTELLIGENCER.

BELEVVILLE, MONDAY, JAN. 18, 1886.

CHARITY.

The Christian charity that directed the care of the children as shown in their orphan condition was generous, disinterested and high. Homeless and destitute beyond description, they seemed to have been born into the world without a chance in life, except to find their place among the sons of the earth, had not a kind hand been extended to them in their extreme time. No mother's lullaby had sung them to sleep; no tender touch had lessened or removed the sorrows of their young lives; no loving hands had directed them into the narrow path which leads to better things in this world, and directs towards the better world hereafter. They were in all things destitute beyond description. Those who so nobly undertook their education were highly rewarded by them to the children whom they had befriended. Almost naked they were found, and when given such a pair of boots—probably the first they had ever possessed—their smiles, and the rapture of joy kissed the boots, while the older one, looking at the boots, exclaimed, "I wish mother could see them." What a lesson in charity! For what a small sum happiness is sometimes given, when such large souls are being benefited, and every mystic will o'-the-wisp that we could worldly happiness is as seldom, if ever, found. After being thoroughly cleaned, and the children were both put to bed, and in the morning the family were awakened by the noise of the little ones singing in bed.

WHO ARE THE CORRUPTIONISTS?

The radicals always profess to be the champions of the people's rights and to put implicit faith in the people, but they are really very, very corrupt, and their loudly expressed regard for the electors is but their real motive. Sir Richard Cartwright, who is now a full-fledged Liberal, gave some exemplification of this trait at the Black banquet in London, at which he said:

There had been such a tremendous, such a falling storm in the political world of the electors of the country, that the fact that he had been elected to the House of Commons was a great triumph.

A more important and unwarranted matter than this was never cast at the people of Canada. Because, forsooth, they will not, by a large majority, vote in support of the ideas which Sir Richard and his party advocate, they are called "corrupt" and as politically immoral.

The knight of the two-headed shield has certainly lost his head and allowed his vanity to constrain his discretion, and he has, besides, stated that which is untrue. If it were admitted, for the sake of argument, that the electorate of the Dominion are corrupt, the enquiry would naturally arise, who were the corrupters?

The records of the election courts show that the Grity party are entitled to that notoriety. It is needless to rehearse the story of the infamy of that party from the date of the "Big Push" letter, and the time of the ballot box stuffing in Jacques Cartier, to the whole lot of the dark, herring brigade and the "cattle" and "sheep" buyers in Lennox.

We repeat the assertion that the people of Canada as a whole are corrupt, as a vile slander. In this country every country, there are corrupt men, but they form a very small minority and the Grity party have been the chief means of rendering them corrupt by their wholesale and systematic bribery and other corrupt practices.

NO FEAR OF A HIND.

A Strong Force, However, Necessary to Keep Order.

(Special to the Star.)

WINNIPEG, Man., January 17.—Hon. J. A. Royal is circulating petitions asking for the release of the half-breed prisoners.

Rev. Mr. Trivett, Episcopal missionary, arrived here on the 16th inst., and is expected to be in the city for some time.

Among the bloods at Montreal, on the 16th inst., the Indians to be quiet or more settled than they are now. I read in one paper that I should have over two hundred Indians in the city.

I could doubt if there are twenty out here. Let me say, that many of the horses which the Indians have which are branded were purchased by them from the South Fork, and they think if they purchased them they are rightly their property. As to rumors which are current about an imminent rising, it may be beneficial to certain so-called reliable informers. It brings money into the country. A large number of police are sent out, and there is more money spent in the country. But do not for one moment think that I consider the reinforcements sent here at all unnecessary. Far from it. I think the interests of this part of the Territory require a strong force to keep order, and should there be an attempt to create a rising, it would be wiped in the bud. Again, let me add, that these Indians are quiet and will remain so if the Government keeps its promise, and treats them as they deserve. They must be treated for some years at least.

Mr. Trivett suggests that if the United States and Dominion Governments could make a treaty, or at least have a clearer understanding with each other on Indian matters, it would be better for the stock men on both sides of the boundary, and is the long run beneficial to the Indians themselves. He also urges that all the Government officials who have to do with the Indians should be men of a strict moral character. He strongly urges that the Government should send Industrial Schools near every Indian center. He sees no reason why Indian girls should not make good servants, if rightly taught and properly protected. He goes on to say: "Let some responsibility rest upon the Indians themselves. Make twelve or twenty of them police. Give them a dress, and distinguish them from the rest of the tribe, to a certain extent, responsible for the conduct of the Indians." He does not think that the bloods "have so much sympathy with the Crees as they are credited with frequently."

He says: "When I have been speaking to these of the late rebellion they have called the Crees fools. We do not seem to be at all afraid of our Indians. I think it is a shame that false reports should be spread so freely. I quite agree with Colonel McLeod that there is no fear of a rising, and there is no truth in the report."

CABLE NOTES.

LONDON, Jan. 16.—The Telegraph says the Government proposes to re-negotiate the clauses of the Crime Act relating to the extradition of persons providing for imperial trials and the crushing out of terrorism in the land.

LONDON, Jan. 16.—The Times recognizes that the Irish question must receive the immediate attention of the new Parliament. In a spirited leading article it urges the necessity of the Government party at once facing the demand.

It says: "The Conservatives cannot shrink or postpone their action. If they attempt to remain in office without making a vigorous effort to grapple with the Irish difficulty, they will be in their own minds, and the public opinion, and the universal sense of the nation, that they are not doing their duty. They must either make a bold stand, or they must resign."

PARIS, Jan. 16.—Another page has been added to the blood-stained record of the murder of Maria D'Agostini, a lady of easy morals, who occupied sumptuous apartments at the Boulevard de la Madeleine within a stone's throw of the scene of the March 18th carnage. Coming on the heels of the sensational murder and the Barber trial, the revelation of this new crime has caused a semi-panic.

God Live! with Hippopotamuses.

Dr. P. H. Patterson, Salisbury, Mass., says: "I have seen and shot a hippopotamus, and I can tell you that it is a very good animal, and that it is very useful to the natives of the country. It is the only preparation of God Live! Oil."

A SOCIAL SCANDAL.

The Bide of a Few Hours Robbed of her Treasure.

HER HUSBAND ARRESTED FOR BIGAMY.

A Sketch of the Affair as Told by the Police.

The second bride's story of her treachery.

The quiet going citizens of Belleville have furnished material for a romance, a romance in real life, a genuine case of bigamy in the person of a woman who is now a retired sewing machine agent and a young, respectable girl of this city. The former is a deliberate scheming villain, the latter an innocent victim. Unlike most cases of this nature, the end is what the friends of the injured one most desire—a speedy rescue.

and declared he had no knowledge of the woman. He was returned to the cell, but in a short time he was taken to the police station, where he was again taken into his previous cell.

CONFIDENTIAL WITNESS. He said he was infatuated with the Belleville girl, which led him to commit the crime. Since he had failed in his attempt he was anxious to make any kind of settlement to secure his liberty.

HE WAS TAKEN SO. Miss Kate E. Walsh before her marriage. She lived in Lindsay. Her father, John Walsh, is dead. He left her and her mother some property, which is in Ashburnham, near Peterborough. It was by mortgaging this that Shaver raised the $500. When arrested he had $21 on his person.

WHAT THE FIRST WIFE SAYS. Mrs. Shaver, who is stopping at the Henderson House in this city, was called upon by an INTELLIGENCER reporter. She is a woman about 25 years of age, and was dressed in a red plush suit. In conversation she is a shrewd clever woman, with a mind of her own. She refused to give confidential information, saying that she did not wish to make any statements until she had had an interview with her husband. It seemed to her that her husband had made some kind of a statement, but she would not make a positive statement, but intimated that her husband had told her of his love affair in Belleville, which had been DISCONTINUED BY HIM because of rumors he had heard of Miss Vandewater. She stated that she believed Miss Vandewater knew that Shaver was a married man, and that he had been believed he had with him when he left home. In answer to the question "How did you suspect there was anything wrong?" she said: "After Shaver left a letter to me at home, written in a lady's handwriting. It was postmarked Belleville. I judged from feeling of it that there was a photograph in it, and opened it and found it was a love letter from Miss Vandewater and her photograph. I knew then that he had told me and from what else I heard I stated after him."

Finding that nothing further could be learned from her, the reporter withdrew and called for

MISS MAUD VANDEWATER STORY. Miss Maud Vandewater said in the presence of her grandfather, Mr. Joseph Vandewater and his wife. I first met Shaver in October, he came here to sell a sewing machine and insisted on leaving it in my house. He and his wife were in my house for about 15 minutes. This was on a Friday. On Saturday afternoon he came again, grandmother responded to his ring. He stated to her that he was the agent who sold the machine and asked her if she would like to buy it. I was down town. He sat down and

MADE HIMSELF AGREEABLE with her, telling her who he was; stating he came from back of Cornwall, that he owned a farm of 100 acres with a brick house upon it. His father he said was dead. In fact gave quite a detailed account of his family affairs. During the conversation I came home. In a short time he showed girl watches and wished to sell one to grandmother for me. Upon being refused, he offered to present me with one if I would accept it. He then invited me to ATTEND THE OPERA with him that evening. I again refused, but grandmother consented to his accompanying us all to the Salvation Army in the evening, which he did. From that time he paid me close attention for two weeks, when he proposed. I refused him at first, but he persisted. He spoke to her that evening and was not discouraged, as he was a stranger and his position in society not known. He offered to take Mr. Vandewater to his old home to verify his statements. The day he went away we went for a drive to the Institute; on the drive home I told him his explanation of his past was unsatisfactory and unless he could make his history clearer our relations must end. The only thing he offered in the way of clearing this up was a letter which he showed from a man named Gardner, at Cornwall, who offered to purchase a farm of Shaver, valued at $7,000. The letter spoke of Shaver as a young man who was well to do and with good prospects. I did not like the
